Executive Director's Perspective

The third quarter of the year was an exciting time for us at PPKS. Buoyed by the success of new teaching and learning initiatives across our campuses over the first half of the year, the period from July to September was a hive of activity to propel us along our voyage to produce a qualified and competent workforce through continuous learning and development.

With breathtaking advances in technology becoming the norm and transforming 'the way we do things', there is an urgent need for all stakeholders to fly the flag of innovation across the broad spectrum of government, industry and academia. Indeed, the Digital Economy and Industry 4.0 herald an exciting new era, adding new hues to the vibrant canvas of humankind.

At PPKS, we have engaged in lively discourse with our stakeholders, namely the government and industry, regarding the all-important role of Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET) in developing an industry-ready workforce. In this respect, in July 2018, it was an honour for PPKS to support the 'Smart Factory Digital Transformation with IR 4.0' seminar. With the strong support of our stakeholders, in the coming months we will be organizing Industry 4.0 Seminars in Kuching and Sibul followed by a TVET Symposium in February 2019.

As an education and training provider, we have also intensified our efforts in the area of staff development, to raise the bar in teaching and learning. An important focus is on continuous learning to facilitate the development of high-calibre teaching staff who will also serve as coaches and mentors to our students. As part of our multi-pronged approach, we have also commenced the upgrading of our teaching and learning facilities in line with the requirements of Industry 4.0.

As we stand united under a common vision with our stakeholders, the future will be an oasis of opportunity for us to develop a future-ready workforce and facilitate the transformation of our state and nation for the benefit of the populace.

During the course of the Food Diversity Voyage programme in Kuching, the students visited various places of interest and tourist attractions in and around Kuching and Bau. In addition to team building activities at i-CATS, the students also spent time with their host families. This enabled the Japanese students to experience first-hand, Sarawak's renowned hospitality.
